At a joyful thanksgiving for Her Majesty's
Sixty years of service to us all
At St Swithin's Church, Clunbury
On Sunday June 3rd at 10am

Share your memories of the Queen's reign and raise a cup of tea or a glass of wine afterwards, with flags, balloons and soft drinks for the children.

At 10.45 a group photo of the congregation will be taken, to hand down to posterity, so be sure to wear your best!

Jubilee Photo Sharing

Carol Griffiths has suggested that we should have a place where everyone could share their Jubilee photos. It should be easy to use, allow anyone to upload and download high-resolution photos and be free of annoying adverts. After some investigation we have set up an account on the ZangZing.com photo sharing website. You can email your photos to the site as attachments and see all the photos that have been uploaded. There is a link to the Diamond Jubilee Photo Album on theparishpost.org website. This takes you via a help page which gives detailed instructions.

Clunbury Village Hall Meeting

Fifteen members of the public in addition to the committee attended the open meeting. Phil Wright, The Village Hall Committee Chairman, described and demonstrated the improvements that had been made to the Hall thanks to the grant received. There was discussion about how the remaining improvement money should be spent and about expanding the programme of events held at the Hall. Duncan Brown, Eirlys Ellams, David Hill and Sue Hill were co-opted as new committee members. A few ideas for increasing the use of the hall such as a regular 'Clunbury Café', games evenings, and meetings to swap garden plants and produce were suggested. Since the meeting a small group of committee members have made a start on sprucing up the outside of the Hall. The tubs and hanging baskets have been replanted, the weeds strimmed and sprayed and the grass cut. The next tasks are to repaint the exterior of the window frames and the rendering, and improve the drainage and surface of the car park. If anyone has about ten tons of gravel to donate please get in touch!

SWSGC

Dr Mylechreest, the speaker at the SWSGC April meeting in Lydbury North Village Hall, spoke about the very wide range of uses that plants have worldwide, from rubber trees to cork trees, from Yew trees used in the pharmaceutical trade, to cotton and bamboo used to produce cloth. He also gave his audience lots of historical, social and cultural information on plants, including the fact that the Romans extracted salicylic acid from willows which was used as a pain killer.

Next meeting: Wednesday 27 June - Evening coach outing to Brownhill Gardens and meal.

Ashbeds Coffee Morning

There was glorious weather for Dawn Parsonage's Coffee Morning at Ashbeds, Clunton Coppice, on 26 May and visitors enjoyed the lovely, peaceful garden beneath the wood; partook of a cake stall, raffle and a dog quiz, and raised £325 for the North West Region Golden Retriever Trust. Dawn extends her thanks to all who supported it, helped and donated produce.

Clunbury Under Fives

It is with the greatest of sadness that Clunbury Under Fives has now closed. A huge thank you goes out to all those who have supported us over the years, including parents, children, staff, volunteers and fundraisers.

On the positive side, it is hoped to establish a weekly parent and toddler group in the village hall from September. If you know anyone who would be interested, please contact Cheryl Everton 07917 567827, or the village hall committee.

Helicopter lends a hand

Photos: Sandra Morgan

In late May, the Air Ambulance came to the rescue of Phil Wright, from Clunbury, who had damaged his hand in a car engine. The helicopter landed in a nearby field, to the great delight of the children paddling in the river. Phil was air-lifted to the hospital. Following prompt treatment, he was fit enough to make a speech at the Arbor Day festivities.

Spot the 'copter!

Earlier in the year (15 Feb) the Air Ambulance had been called to the rescue when Tony Goodwin, from Kempton, cut two fingers to the bone with an electric planer. A doctor, who was on the helicopter, administered first aid, prior to a successful operation the following day.

In yet another incident, Brian Morgan ripped all the skin on the back of his hand on 13 May. Twenty-four butterfly stitches were needed to put it back together again. Apparently it is mending beautifully, thanks to a little bit of honey.

Thanks to the Air Ambulance and hospital staff.

Caring for Rivers in the Clun Catchment – Discussion with local communities

The Shropshire Hills AONB Partnership is working on a three year River Clun Catchment project. To this end, it has joined with others in forming a Clun Catchment Partnership. Local people's views will feed into the work of statutory agencies and others in the catchment. A Catchment Management Plan will be drawn up to co-ordinate activity. The project also links closely to a Defra-funded Catchment Demonstration Initiative for the wider River Teme Catchment; this is led by the Severn Rivers Trust.

A community meeting was held at Lydbury North Village Hall on 26 April, the first of three such meetings designed to raise awareness of the issues affecting the River Clun Catchment and to gather views from the community as to its future. Further community meetings follow at Bucknell (29 May) and Clun (Memorial Hall, 28 June, 7.30pm).

Twenty three people attended the meeting, which concentrated in particular on the River Kemp, a significant tributary of the Clun. Brief presentations were given by the AONB, a local resident and ex-farmer, and by representatives from Natural England, Severn Rivers Trust and Shropshire Council. Discussion groups were then formed so as to gather views on the following: What do rivers mean to you? What is your vision for the river? What needs to be done to achieve the vision? Who needs to be involved? Further opportunities for involvement will be communicated to those who attended the meeting and left contact details.

Clunbury Parish, Past and Present

Extracts from the Record of the Visitation by Archdeacon Plymley (later named Corbett) to Clunbury Parish, April 13 1793

Further to my introductory note in the April issue of The Parish Post, herewith the second extract from Archdeacon Plymley's report on his visitation to Clunbury on April 13 1793; it concerns the church. Anyone interested in reading the full report should go to Shropshire Archives where it is referenced SA6001/6860-5.

The building

This church is upon the North East extremity of the Parish. There was a chapel formerly at Clunton which must have balanced this inconvenience very much. There is now no remains of this chapel, nor could I find out when it was destroyed. An unenclosed spot in the village is still called the church yard.

The Ch. consists of a Nave and chancel and side chancel projecting to the S[outh] of it, and which belonged to the Downs's of Purslow Hall, once a family in this Parish. The chancel contains 4 pews. The S[outh] chancel 2 forms and 2 pews. The Nave 20[?] pews and 6 forms in a state of decay. There is a spacious gallery at the W[est] end. The roof of the whole fabric wants to have the cover relaid. The aisle [=aisle] of the nave should be new paved with flags. The Screen between it and the chancel should be taken away. The South chancel is dirty and indecent thro'out.

Attendance

At the monthly sacrament from 7 to 14 persons attend. From 40 to 50 communicate upon Easter Day, about ½ the number on Good Friday and Low Sunday. The monthly communicants seldom attend on festivals. Out of 744 persons then, we may reckon at 100 communicants and of these a greater proportion are the day labourers. The usual congregations are not thought bad ones for the size and situation of the Parish and all ranks attend equally well. There is very sufficient plate for the use of the altar.

Christina Whitehead, Church Warden, reports that today the numbers attending the monthly communion are very similar to those reported by Archdeacon Plymley 200 years ago, and this despite a considerably smaller population (478 compared to 744). Over the last four years the average number of communicants on Easter Day has been 37, and this year, as reported in the Clun Forest Deanery Magazine, at least eighty people, a number of dogs and two horses were on Clunbury Hill on Good Friday to erect the cross. Christina adds that the church is in a very good state: the roof was re-done a few years ago and the bells refurbished and re-hung more recently. As she says, it's sad that the gallery has gone, but the chancel is now clean and decent throughout!

Parish Assembly and Council Meetings

Held on 17 May, the Parish Assembly Meeting consisted of formal presentation of accounts and the Chairman's report. Being a recap of events, it contained no surprises, and has been reported in previous issues of the Parish Post. Three members of the public were present (including myself), but there was no provision for questions or comments from the floor.

In the subsequent Council Meeting, Harry Collins and John Croxton were re-elected as chairman and vice-chairman. Harry emphasised that it was likely to be his last year in office.

Planning Applications

Extension and Garage at the Barn, Clunbury - A site meeting had been held, and no objections raised.

Tennis court and Fencing at Purslow Hall - No objections

Lambing shed at Hurst Barn Clunton - No objections

Clunbury School - new building to house a biomass (wood pellet) boiler being introduced by Shropshire Council (SC) to reduce costs and carbon.

AED Scheme

The next training session is scheduled for 16 June at Bishop's Castle (anyone interested should contact Eddie Jones on 640856).

Diamond Jubilee

The council had offered to contribute towards commemorative mugs, or similar, for Clunbury School children. The school were considering coins, and were also planning a school event, linked to the memory of Penny Marsh. Cllr Croxton would seek clarification.

Parish Plan

There have been no responses to the requests for a litter picker coordinator, or a parish paths warden. Councillors were asked to approach potential volunteers directly.

Roads

B4385 at Kempton - Further to the last meetings discussion, it was agreed that SC be asked to reduce the advisory signs from 40 to 30 mph.

Little Brampton crossroads - In view of recent road accidents a meeting will be arranged with SC officers to discuss improved signage and other options.

Clunbury Village sign - the sign on Twitchen Road is missing, and needs to be replaced, preferably in a new location, less prone to damage.

General road conditions - various potholes and poor surface conditions were reported, including near Ford cottages, Gunridge Lane, Redwood Lane and the Cwm area.

BOAT - there were further reports of informal rallies of 4x4s on the byway, but it was agreed to wait for a response from the association of local councils before deciding how best to achieve a change of status.

Housing Development Plan (SAMDev)

SC's development plan for Clunbury (linked with Clungunford!) does not appear to propose specific development, but would allow limited individual applications. The date for comment/consultation has been extended to 20 July.

Next meeting, 12 July, 8.00pm Clunton village hall.
